D. M. (MACK) ANTHONY, OF FUTHEYVILLE

(By W. E. Bourbe)

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches. It should be a comfort to Mr. Anthony should he reflect upon the fact that the Lord pondereth the heart, and a faithful man shall abound in blessings, for I am sure as I the category of worthy there are few I can call to mind who are more diligent in doing good, more faithful and unselfish in ministering to to need of the less fortunate brother. Many times in the last few years has it been my privilege to observe the acts of kindness and mercy done and contemplated by Mr. Anthony. Seldom have I talked to him but that some noble desire or expression eminated from him.

Mr. Anhtony was the son of Mr. D. M. Anthony, Sr., and Mrs. Vicy Pyron Anthony, people of the old school of thought who believed there was no compromise between right and wrong. In this wholesome atmosphere did young Mack grow to manhood and ever has he reflected credit upon his parents.

Mr. Anthony, as were his parents, is a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, that rock-ribbed denomination which aboundeth in charity, who endeavor by both example and precept to live up to their belief—believing that he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent and he that followeth after righteousness and mercy findeth life, righteousness and honor. Mr. Anthony was born in Beat 2 in the good old Providence community from whence have come so many sterling citizens who have meant much to our county, state and nation.

Mr. Anthony moved to Grenada in 1900 where he immediately entered into an active business life, identifying himself in all that is best for his family and community, he has a family he may justly feel proud of for they reflect his example and teachings, [illegible] is now engaged in the mercantile business in Futheyville or East Grenada, where if observation is to be used as a barometer, he is meeting with success. Mr. Anthony is also extensively engaged in other occupations, being a farmer of no mean ability or proportion. Mr. Anthony is quiet and unassuming, takes small credit for his good deeds. The country would be a much finer place to live were there many more people like you Mr. Anthony. Many years of joy and happiness to you and your family, Mr. D. M. Anthony of Futheyville.

PROPOSE "PAY-AS-YOU FIGHT" PLAN TO DISCOURAGE CLAMOR FOR WARS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 26—Legislation that will automatically draft all of the nation's resources in time of war, simultaneously with man-power, is the chief recommendation in a series of peace insurance proposals presented to Congress by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and designed to put teeth in the campaign currently being waged by the Veterans to keep the United States out of war.

"If the owners of industry could be told today their profits will cease the minute war is declared by the United States," declares Commander-in-Chief Scott P. Squyres, "you can be sure they will do everything in their power to keep us out of war. If Uncle Sam will tell the farmers they will make no profits on their wheat, nor their livestock, during the duration of the war, you can be confident every farmer will demand a vote against war by his Congressman. If Uncle Sam will tell organized labor there will be no boom-time wages, and that labor must make equal sacrifices with the soldier, we will then have the added force of organized labor calling upon Congress to keep America at peace. When we have the courage, and the good sense, in this country to de-profitize war, then the forces which clamor for war will be properly muzzled. In the midst of hysterical patriotism there is nothing that will induce sober reflections more effectively than a reminder of the personal profit losses involved."

"Legislation on our statute books, which will make each and every citizen assume his rightful share in the costs and burdens of conducting a war, will make us stop and think carefully before we let hysteria sweep us into another war."

The "pre-paid wars" plan supplements a campaign now being waged by the V. F. W. to secure 25,000,000 signatures to a petition calling upon Congress to adopt and apply policies designed to keep America out of war.

Commander-in-Chief Squyres makes a careful distinction between this campaign and various proposals of different Congressmen to require a referendum of the people, by Constitutional amendment, before the United States could declare war.

"We, as overseas veterans, are not convinced this amendment would serve to keep America at peace," the order states. "We know how easy it is to stampede public sentiment into a clamor for war. We are familiar with the insidious influence of propaganda, and how it can be used by any powerful agency to convert a group of peace-loving people into an army of bloodthirsty fighters—Let us picture what would happen today if the power-that-be in Washington should decide among themselves that this country must go to war. If confronted with the necessity of leaping the hurdle of a referendum, they would simply map out a preliminary campaign of propaganda to make certain that every American citizen would be mad enough to rush to the polls to vote 'yes' without hesitation.

"In this modern era of the radio the trick could be accomplished in nearly one broadcast, with all the major networks mobilized for the purpose. In response to a flag-waving, breast-thumping oration, broadcast from the nation's capital, the vote for war would be so one-sided in a referendum no one would even take the trouble to count the negatives."

The V. F. W. leader declared that the present petition campaign of the V. F. W. is a survey of public sentiment at a time when people are in full possession of their thinking faculties.

"On occasions in the past," he said, "most members of Congress have voted for war because they were convinced the people wanted war. Members of Congress have been taught to understand they are being sent to Washington as representatives of their constituents . . . They are anxious to carry out the wishes of the voters back home."

The V. F. W. spokesman called upon the United States to steer clear of foreign entanglements and any alliance with world powers that pretend to pray for peace but in reality represent a group organized exclusively for the mutual protection of their economic gains.

The other war-preventative measures being stressed by the V. F. W. are controlled sale of munitions and an adequate national defense.

"We recognize no logic in a system which permits armament makers to manufacture bombs, shells and machine guns that may subsequently be used to destroy American troops," Squyres explained. "We do not believe that federal government should compete with private industry. But we are convinced the manufacture of armaments and munitions should be removed from the field of private industry because it is so closely identified with our national defense.

"We have no desire to compete in a race for armament with other countries, but America deserves all the military protection we can maintain without creating an unnecessary burden upon our people," Squyres' statement continued. "We must possess the potential military strength that will command respect and recognition for our rights as a free and independent nation. We must be strong enough at all times to discourage the covetous ambitions of dictators who dream of world conquests."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ASKS AID FOR THE NEEDY IN CHINA

Mrs. W. D. Salmon, Chairman Grenada County Chapter Red Cross, received the following letter:

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24—The President has addressed the following letter to the Chairman of the American Red Cross:

"My dear Admiral Grayson:

"There is, I am confident, a widespread desire on the part of our citizens in every section of the country to contribute to a fund to aid in meeting the extreme distress of millions of civilian people in China. I feel that our people are deeply sympathetic with those in need in this situation and will wish by their voluntary contributions to take some larger part in aiding in this humanitarian task in which the people of many countries are participating. The need of the Chinese is evidenced by the fact that when the International Red Cross Committee made inquiry of both the Japanese and Chinese Red Cross Societies the Japanese Society replied that their resources were adequate to deal with their situation and the Chinese stated that they very much needed outside assistance.

"In order to give effect to this desire to aid the people of China it is necessary that some organization be designated to supervise the collection and distribution of the funds and for such a task we naturally turn to the Red Cross.

"I should like to request, therefore, that the Red Cross take such steps as it may deem appropriate to afford the American people an opportunity to respond by their contributions to the need of our suffering fellow-beings and I trust that their response will result in a good-will offering of as much as perhaps one million dollars. In response to such an appeal I urge that all our citizens give promptly and generously.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mrs. W. D. Salmon, Chairman Grenada County Chapter American Red Cross asked that we advise our readers that Mr. Henry J. Ray will receive any contribution that you might wish to make to this cause.

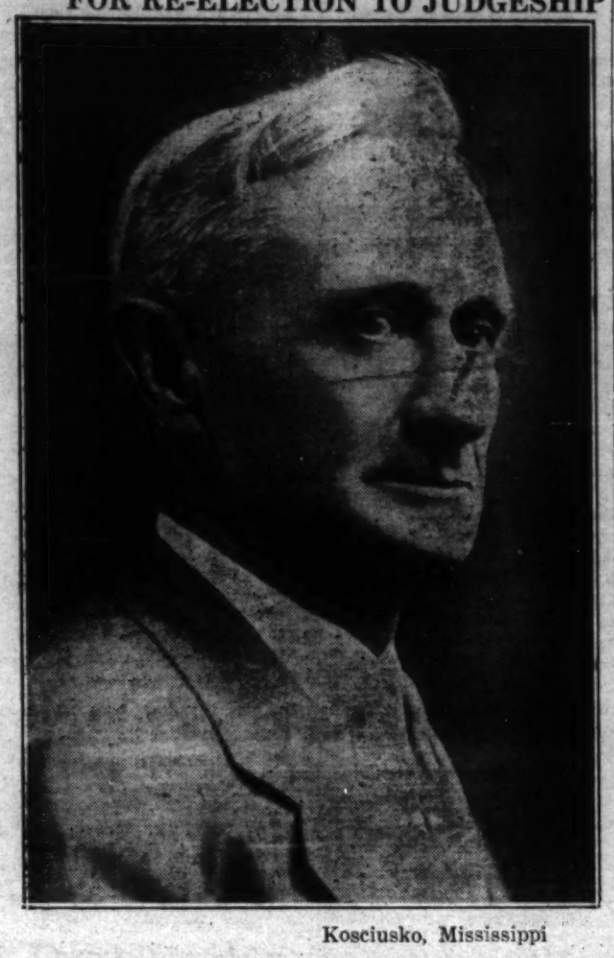
JUDGE JOHN F. ALLEN ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION TO JUDGESHIP



Kosciusko, Mississippi

To the Citizens of the Fifth Judicial District:

I am a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Judge for one more term.

I desire first to express my deepest gratitude for your loyalty, support and confidence. You have been indeed kind to me, having conferred this honor and entrusted me with your confidence for the past twelve years, and for which I want to assure you that I am deeply grateful.

My highest ambition has been at all times to prove worthy of the trust. I have endeavored never to abuse the power and the authority vested in the court, but have at all times endeavored to hold the scales of justice impartially, fairly and justly to the rich, the poor, the high, the low, all alike. I have cooperated with the officers of the several counties whose duties were to look after the finances of the counties as best I could, not to obstruct law enforcement, and have been able to hold the courts at a very low cost during my administration.

I fully appreciate the duties and responsibilities of the court, and know by experience that the court is often called upon to deal with human life and liberty, as well as the material affairs of men. I have made you the best Circuit Judge that lay in my power. If I have proven to be fair, impartial, capable and worthy of your confidence, then may I again ask you for your support and re-election for one more term. The office is yours. You owe me nothing except a fair consideration of my merits and qualifications to serve you, and if re-elected, my highest ambition will be to give you the benefit of the experience and training that I have gained during the past twelve years as your Circuit Judge.

Respectfully yours,

(Adv.) JOHN F. ALLEN.

SYPHILIS "A HORRIBLE HUMAN SCOURGE" HAS WROUGHT HAVOC

Calling syphilis "a horrible human scourge which has filled blind institutions and insane asylums, wrought havoc in history, wrecked human hopes, and destroyed individuals," Dr. J. Lloyd Decell, well known pastor of Galloway Memorial Church, Jackson, said in a recent release to the press that the church has a definite part in the social hygiene program being carried on by the State Board of Health and physicians all over the state.

Stating that the close relation of the physical and spiritual makes them the joint concern of both physician and prophet, the minister enumerated three ways, at least, in which the church may assist in the social hygiene program: instruction in social and physical well-being; provision of recreational facilities; and proclamation of the laws of morality.

"There is no good reason," Dr. Decell averred, "why in its Sunday School literature and class room instruction the church should be timid or hesitant in teaching the plainest truths about ways of social living which lead to physical well-being. There is every good reason why it should tell of the consequences in broken bodies and human misery which result from the violation of these ways.

"We of the churches should provide, and many endeavor so to do, wholesome recreational and social programs for children and youth. The negative 'don't do this!' must be substituted with 'let's do this!' Mothers and fathers of our churches must realize and assume responsibility for rightly guilding children in wholesome play and clean fellowship.

"Pulpit and periodical of the church can assist in the social hygiene program by a sane and decent interpretation of the facts which medical science assembles. The church can also lend assistance by proclaiming a gospel that thunders with the tones of Sinai and blazes with the Saving Grace of Calvary. Moral stamina preserves physical strength."

The pastor continued, "If it be platitudinous to plead for the 'white life' on the part of both men and women, then make the most of it. 'Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord.' 'Know ye not that your bodies are the temples of the Holy Ghost?'

'Let the medical fraternity on with the battle against preventable diseases; and the church will support the program by giving instructive information, encouraging wholesome social living, and proclaiming a preventing gospel!"

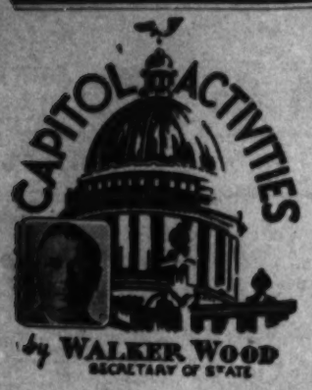
THE GRENADA SENTINEL
Distinctive Printers : Office Outfitters
GRENADA, MISSISSIPPI



by WALKER WOOD
SECRETARY OF STATE

News that caused a pall of sadness to spread over statehouse circles last week was the death of William Jones Miller, aged 82 years, which occurred in Washington, D. C. Mr. Miller was a native of South Carolina, but came to Mississippi with his parents as an infant, and was reared in Panola county. He began his political life as sheriff of Panola county, and from there he came to Jackson and served as a clerk in the state auditor's office; later elected state treasurer, then served as state fire marshal, deputy state auditor, and then was elected auditor. Later he was elected state revenue agent and continued in that office as state tax collector until the close of his administration in 1932. For the past few years he has served as doorman in the U. S. Senate in Washington, D. C. He is survived by a number of children, grandchildren and great-grand children.

Representative citizens of Calhoun county, visiting Jackson in the interest of having the forestry and fire prevention work of the state continued, presented a memorial to the legislature, revealing that one-fourth of the population of that splendid county is supported by the forests and forest products, and that 4800 people of that county depend upon forest industries and resources for a livelihood. The memorial further states that the forestry industry of that county constitutes a heavy contributor to the gasoline tax income of the State each year, and that the annual pay roll of the lumber plants in Calhoun county for 1937 was in excess of 7¾ million dollars.

The State Highway Commission had a decided inning last week in the Senate. Senator George Ritchey of the 34th District undertook to show that the state highway commission was not complying with specifications in the paving of highways, an investigating committee having been asked for to look into such matters. An executive session was held, in which the Senate reviewed the report of the roads, ferries and bridges committee, headed by Senator Bobbie Burns of Brandon, which had been considering the confirmation of the Governor's appointments of three highway commissioners. The said appointments were confirmed almost unanimously, there being only one dissenting vote—that of Senator Ritchey, who declined to vote for the confirmation of Commissioner F. L. Linker of the northern district, and Hiram Patterson of the southern district. By practically the same vote, the Senate postponed indefinitely the resolution asking for an investigating committee for the highway commission, and passed the highway bill No. 153.

House Bills, some seven or eight in number, were introduced on Tuesday, providing for reductions in privilege licenses of automobile service stations and filling stations for certain accessories, sold by such stations.

House Bill 84 seeks to prohibit district attorneys from engaging in private practice.

H. B. 86 would provide for increasing the salaries of the seventeen district attorneys from $3,500 to $5,000 per annum.

H. B. 109 would amend Section 1946 of the Code of 1930 to fix the local rate of interest at 4 per cent, and the contract rate of interest at 6 per cent. This bill if passed and approved would decrease both rates as named two per cent.

H. B. 114 would provide for an appropriation for needy aged persons through the State Department of Public Welfare.

H. B. 117 seeks to permit any individual, firm, partnership, corporation, union or society to file in the office of the Secretary of State officially, slogans, badges, insignia, names, signs, whatever designs, labels, prints, imprints, forms of advertisements, trade marks, wrappers, bands, (except cattle brands), designations, books, pamphlets, folders, periodicals, lectures, etc.

H. B. 120 would increase the number of deputies sufficiently to enable the auditor of public accounts to make at least an annual audit of the various county offices, and to audit all public offices, boards and commissions handling public funds.

H. B. 121 would provide that no deficiency judgment shall be taken after foreclosure of trust deeds and mortgages, and for other purposes.

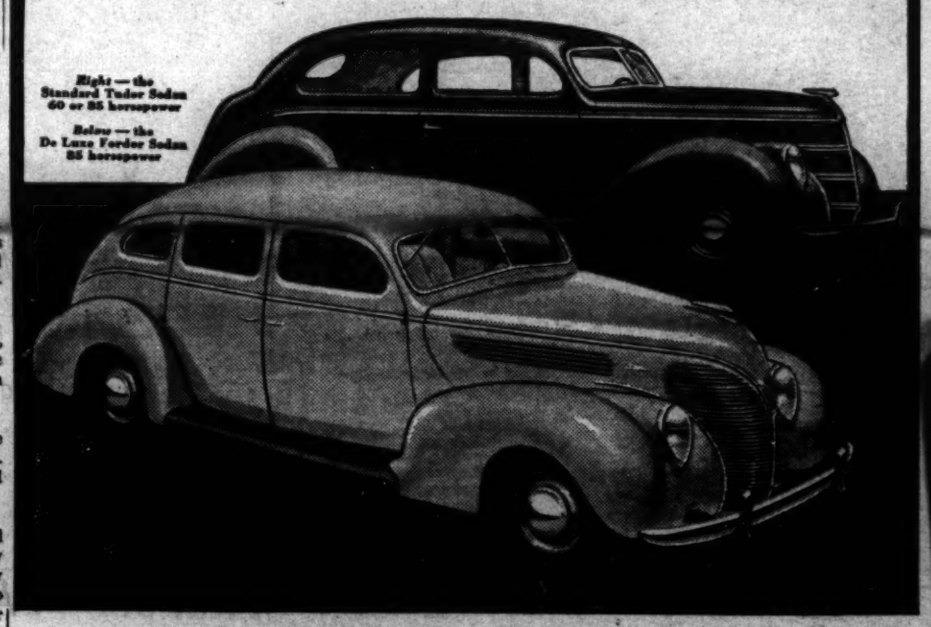
FORD OFFERS TWO NEW CARS
and keeps their PRICES LOW



THERE are two new Ford cars for 1938—the De Luxe and the Standard—differing in appearance, appointments and price—but built on the same dependable Ford chassis.

Both bring you the basic advantages of a V-type 8-cylinder power-plant—smooth performance and compact design. The De Luxe Ford has the 85-horsepower engine. The Standard Ford provides a choice of 85 or 60 horsepower.

Both new cars are economical to operate. The Standard, with thrifty "60" engine, costs less to run than any other Ford car ever built.

And both new cars are priced low. Low price, like economy, is a Ford tradition. Ford founded the low-price field 30 years ago and keeps Ford prices low.

The De Luxe Ford costs slightly more than the Standard Ford, but provides more style with extra room in the closed sedans. Both cars, in proportion to price, represent unusual values. Both are built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence. There's a dealer near you.

THE LABOR BILL

Enact the Labor Bill and kill the industrial program of Mississippi. The newspapers of Mississippi have donated thousands of inches of advertising space promoting Governor White's Industrial Program, but count it all "gone with the wind" with the enactment of the present Labor Bill.

If Industrialists locate in Mississippi that's their lookout. We have spent money inviting industrialists here and now by a mere act of the legislature, representatives of the people, we drive them out.

The bill is unfair to the people of Mississippi—we have no further space for advertising Mississippi resources in this paper should this bill be approved by the governor.

FROM THE COLUMBUS COMMERCIAL-DISPATCH—The wreckers are working on the budget commission's recommended budget for Mississippi finances.

It's easy to tear down, but it takes intelligence and study and hard work to build-up.

The wreckers are trying to tear the carefully planned and intelligently executed budget all to pieces.

They offer no feasible or sound substitute.

For instance, one group has the audacity to urge reduction of the sales tax to 1 per cent, and the retention of the ad valorem property tax at 8 mills.

The sales tax reducers would pay merchants 10 per cent for collecting tax.

Why pay anybody to collect a tax?

If you pay one taxpayer, you might as well pay all of them, for after all is said and done all tax money has to be collected in some way.

All the wild schemes offered are just the ding dongs of wreckers.

THIS NEW YEAR

Just what this year has in store in the way of living and working conditions is a subject everyone around Grenada is at this time deeply interested in. Of course speculation is rife as to how the farmer will fare during 1938, for it is a recognized fact that unless things run along smoothly for him it is bound to be pretty bumpy for the balance of the country.

From scattered reports, but covering the nation as a whole, indications are that farmers do not look for the bumper crops they harvested in 1937—it's not often we have two years like it in a row—but they are, as a rule, of the opinion that prices generally will be better and that from an actual money standpoint 1938 will be a good year.

The inclination of the government to get in closer touch with industry and to cooperate in launching a building boom and further reducing relief rolls through more employment, is also an optimistic note. In fact, but for the labor situation, with its many strikes and constant turmoil, its own ranks split asunder by factional fights and clash of leadership, everything would be exceedingly bright. If some way can be found to keep labor at peace with industry, then the greatest threat to better imes will be wiped out. Right now the nation is at the capital and labor cross-roads. The two hold prosperity and good times in their hands. If they can be brought together in a reign of peace and understandnig, all will be well with the other activities, and 1938 will pass into history as the kind everybody has long been hoping for.

A BILL TO BLOCK RETAIL PROGRESS

It is reported that an extreme anti-chain store bill will be introduced in the current session of Congress that will make previous efforts to destroy or cripple mass, low-cost merchandising systems seem like child's play.

The bill is to take the form of an amendment to the Clayton Act. Its most important clause states that it shall be unlawful "for any person engaged in retailing in any state to engage in retailing in any other state." The bill provides that the term "persons" is to be construed to include "any individual, corporation, partnership, joint-stock company, business trust or any organized group of the foregoing, whether or not incorporated." Other clauses indicate that an attempt is to be made to cover every possible contingency of retail operation, including forbidding leasing of stores to managers.

By laws, the field of individual enterprise would be limited.

By law, a Chinese wall would be built around state boundaries to block commerce.

By law, low-cost sale and distribution of necessities would be penalized.

By law, the consumer would be forced to pay higher prices for necessities.

By law, the country would be set back on its heels to the corner blacksmith days.

It seems fantastic to think of such legislation being proposed, much less considered seriously at a time when the Federal Trade Commission is investigating increased living costs, and at a time when government professes a desire to cooperate with business to stem depression.

FIFTY YEARS FROM NOW

(From the New York Times)

Those of us who are unduly depressed as we view the political state of the world today may merely have lost our perspective. It is, at any rate, both consoling and stimulating to read the latest prophecy of that prince of prophets, H. G. Wells. Like the rest of us, he has no crystal into which he gazes, but few men can compare with him in his amazing combination of perspective, imagination and range of awareness.

"The common man of today," he declares, "is healthier, better informed, better fed, lit, clothed, housed, with greater power of movement and leading a fuller and more interesting life than the common man of 1888." Life in 1988, he infers, judging from tendencies in the last half century, will be less "cellular" than ours—more open, with the school-centered community replacing the household as the social unit. Our descendants will be more free, candid, agreeable and healthy than we are; their streets, roads, gardens, architecture and clothing will reflect this openness and freedom; and their houses and clothes, particularly, will be revolutionized by the new materials which science is just now beginning to develop.

This outlook, of course, is based on Mr. Wells' assumption, unfortunately not beyond question, that political dictatorship—with its accompanying suppression of freedom of thought and inquiry—is not likely to reach the point where it will prevent scientific progress.

KILL HOUSE BILL NO. 244

House Bill Number 244 should be killed. This bill provides for the refunding of the state excise gasoline tax paid by counties and municipalities of the state as well as various departments of the state and federal government.

On the surface, it seems but fair that this tax should be refunded. However, we beseech you to make an investigation. Go into the matter thoroughly. Then, we feel, that you will oppose the bill.

If all the gasoline excise tax (state) paid by the various counties and municipalities of the state would directly affect different taxing districts, should it be refunded, it would be a different matter. It would not be more than $300.00 per annum for any district in this county. We believe that the same situation is prevalent in most any county in the state.

Take for instance, district one, Grenada county: According to our calculation for the period October 1, 1935 to September 30, 1936, 6,528 gallons of gasoline were purchased. This is per the State Auditing Department's report (as near as we could come to conclusions). Our Supervisor, L. P. Horton, under interrogation as to the amount of gasoline his district would purchase in a year's time, said, approximately 8,000 gallons. Using 8,000 gallons as a basis: The state now refunds, for agricultural consumption of gasoline, 5c per gallon (the state tax being 6c per gallon; 1c allowed for administrative expenses). The county's part of the 6c collected is 2½c per gallon. Say the state allows the additional 2½c per gallon (making a total of 5c) the additional refund to Grenada county, Beat one, basing our calculation on the estimated number of gallons consumed, (and estimated gallons consumed more than actually presented by audit report) the additional revenue to Beat one, Grenada county would be $200.00 per year. Talking for instance, that the state should allow the entire 6c per gallon refund, Grenada county, Beat one, would receive in addition to what they are now receiving, based on 8,000 gallons per year, the estimated consumption for the fiscal year October 1, 1935 to September 30, 1936, $280.00.

We feel that we have had as much, if not more, to do with tax exemptions, if not tax liabilities, than most anybody in Grenada county. We are for getting as much tax exemptions for the people of the State of Mississippi, and especially Grenada county, as any living person, but we are not for "opening the gap and letting the cows come in and then closing the gap after they are in."

For the state departments: The state derives most of the tax. Change the law, make a lot of additional accounting and in in the end derive no benefit. Of course, you may say that the state is saving a specified amount of gasoline tax. They are not. It is merely a case of "Peter Robbing Paul." The Budget Commission arrived at the operating expense of each department of the state after a careful study of their necessary expenses. The gasoline taxes were incorporated in the expense of each department. Don't fool yourself.

GASOLINE TAX DATA

12 Months Ending December 31, 1937

Gasoline Tax - Calendar Year 1937	$10,820,275.84
Amount Paid to Highway Department - 1937	3,449,925.41
Amount Paid to Note Sinking Fund - 1937	2,254,224.15

Estimated Gasoline Tax Collections - 1938-1939 (Based on present rates of 6c per gallon, 1937 consumption, and present method of distribution).

Collections Estimated 1938 and 1939 ($10,820,000.00)	$21,640,000.00
	Annually
Estimate to be paid to Highway Department - 1938-1939 on present basis ($3,450,000.00 annually)	$6,900,000.00
Estimated to be paid to Note Sinking Fund - 1938 and 1939 on present basis ($2,254,000.00 annually)	4,508,000.00

In submitting estimates of expected yield from gasoline tax for the years 1938 and 1939 we are of the opinion that highways which have been opened will be a contributing factor tending to increase our revenue, however, we are also mindful of the fact that our local condition due to decreases in prices of agricultural products and a consequent reduction in our purchasing power will tend to reduce our gasoline tax revenue locally. We, therefore, believe that you should not expect a greater yield from this revenue in 1938 and 1939 than was produced in 1937.

Proposed pending legislation contemplates the elemination of state excise tax of 6c per gallon on solvent napthas, cleaning fluids, etc. If the tax is repealed the gross gasoline tax revenue will be reduced $84,000.00 annually. This will reduce payments to the Highway Note Sinking Fund by $17,500.00 annually.

We have been requested to furnish information as to the rate of tax per gallon imposed on gasoline by our neighboring states. The rates are as follows: Alabama 6c; Louisiana 7c; Arkansas 6½c; Tennessee 7c; Florida 7c; Georgia 6c; Kentucky 5c; Missouri 2c; Oklahoma 4c; Texas 4c; North Carolina 6c; South Carolina 6c.

There are five states in the union with a gasoline tax rate of 6c per gallon as follows: Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina. There are four states in the union with a gasoline tax rate greater than that of Mississippi. They are as follows: Arkansas 6½c; Florida 7c; Louisiana 7c; Tennessee 7c.

In response to inquiry as to municipalities paying gasoline tax our records indicate that only two cities have paid the tax directly to the Commissioner. These two cities buy in tank car lots and pay tax direct The others purchase in small quantities directly from the gasoline dealer just as any other consumer and the dealer pays the tax to the state. The dealer is not required to report detail or retail sales, therefore, we have no information as to local purchases by municipalities.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By Paul Mallon and Walter Pierce

Washington, D. C. Jan. 26—There is a notable lifting of the gloom which pervaded this capitol during the fall of '37—a definite lessening of the tension—in spite of the filibuster over the anti-lynching bill and the attacks of Assistant Attorney General Jackson and the President on holding companies.

There are two causes. First, congress and the country at large have at last realized that there is a recession—or a new depression—and the problems of relief and increased goverment spending can be faced squarely. Second—the leaders of business have professed themselves ready to cooperate.

The stream of important business men flowing into the White House these days does not, however, meet with the approval of all the administration stalwarts. There is a considerable and important bloc who reason thus: Big business caused the recession—not by deliberately plotting—but by raising prices, opposition to wage increases, covert eforts to block court reform, wage-hour legislation, farm benefits and similar plans.

This bloc is now busy telling the President that he holds the whip once more and he must use it. They whisper that he was too easy with the "malefactors of great wealth" when he had them under his thumb before. They insist that the spirit of cooperation which has so suddenly sprung up in this time of stress will as promptly fade when prosperity steps back again.

Only one man can say whether the President will accept the protests of cooperation or whether he will demand submission. That man is Mr. Roosevelt himself.

His more conservative advisors point out that he has won or is winning many of the objectives which he failed to reach last year. A wage-hour bill is considered certain. And the supreme court has managed to recognize itself far better than any legislative measure could have done. It is freely predicted that by 1940 at least five of the nine members will have been Roosevelt appointees.

An auspicious sign for the year has been the almost national approval of Justice Reed as well as the satisfaction with the ambassadorial nomination earlier in the month.

The State Department is supposed to be breathing more easily with the knowledge that London and Berlin are in competent hands

WASHINGTON SUMMARY

(Week Ending January 22)

(By Congressman A. L. Ford)

Majority Leader Barkley is threatening to call the Senate into night session, but the Southern Senators are continuing to filibuster against the anti-lynching bill. Debate in the Senate is unlimited, the proponents of the bill refuse to withdraw it, the opponents refuse to quit talking, and thus the Senate hears debate on the same subject day after day. The anti-lynching bill is the same type of Force legislation which has been unsuccessfully aimed against the South at various times since the Civil War, and the Southerners are grimly determined not to give in. They are presenting a united front with enthusiasm. Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana, successor to the late Huey P. Long, held the floor for four days this week in opposition to the bill—after having two days to his credit for last week. It is said that the Senator's throat is not in very bad condition, but that his hand is extremely sore from so much pounding his desk during the course of his address. It took him one entire day to tell about the negro cult in New York headed by the notorious "Father Divine," an alleged "god" on earth, with "heavens" scattered throughout the world. This was done to show how and to what extent the negro race can be influenced.

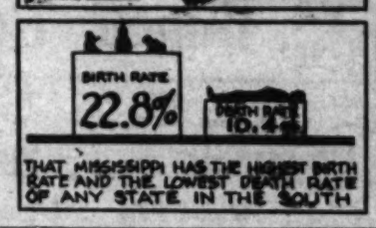
The House was concerned this week with appropriations for the Navy, but also found time to pass a bill of much interest to farmers who are wondering how they will finance their 1938 crop operations.

—so much so that even the frantic Nazi protest over ex-Ambassador Dodd's scathing denunciations of Hitler failed to ruffle Secretary Hull.

It is no secret that the European situation is much less disturbing to Washington than it was last year. In spite of the growth and truculence of the Facist powers, expected in '38. Even the Spanish trouble promises to die down. The recapture of the key position of teruel by the loyalists may well prove to have been the decisive action of this civil war.

It's a Fact . . .

THAT IN THREE OUT OF THE EIGHT YEARS FROM 1926 TO 1934 GRADUATES OF MISSISSIPPI ACCREDITED HIGH SCHOOLS RANKED BEST IN THE ELEVEN SOUTHERN STATES IN MINIMUM NUMBER OF FAILURES DURING THE FIRST YEAR OF COLLEGE. NO OTHER STATE HAS EVER TAKEN FIRST PLACE MORE THAN TWICE



BIRTH RATE 22.8%
DEATH RATE 10.4%
THAT MISSISSIPPI HAS THE HIGHEST BIRTH RATE AND THE LOWEST DEATH RATE OF ANY STATE IN THE SOUTH

The Bill appropriates $34,500,000 for crop loans. The Senate must now consider the question, and all legislation is, of course, tied up in that Body, pending the release of the anti-lynching jam.

The House gave final approval, Friday, to the Housing legislation initiated at the Special Session, and it is hoped that similar action will soon be forthcoming for the 1938 Farm Bill. Spring is almost here, and the farmers are entitled to know what is going to be asked of them this year.

Determined To Break "Quail Racketeering"

Jackson, Miss., Jan 26—Determined to break up "quail racketeering" reported in various sections of the state, Secretary Ben M. Stevens of the Game and Fish Commission, said efforts were being made by wardens and other enforcement officers to apprehend these alleged operators.

"And," he added, "with the continued cooperation of real sportsmen of the state, we are going to put an end to the operations of these persons who have no regard for the conservation laws."

Leads have been furnished enforcement officers by sportsmen, and have resulted in several arrests thus far.

"We are going to follow through this campaign during the remainder of the season in an effort to rid the state of those who are looking to the financial returns for themselves rather than for the conservation of the game life for all time," Secretary Stevens said.

Under the law, a person is allowed to have 24 quail in possession with the bag limit 12. Birds are not to be sold under any circumstances or shipped without a permit from the Game and Fish Commission.

In connection with the drive, Secretary Stevens said three arrests during the past week were for violations of the laws with reference to selling and shipping. Two of the prosecutions resulted in fines in excess of $400 being paid, while the other is pending under $1000 bond.

Willie Lewis of Bolton was apprehended in Jackson with 82 quail in his possession. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $250.00. The other Hinds county prosecution was that of Pearlie Thomas, who was selling quail, for which he paid a fine of $125.00.

In both cases, the confiscated birds were donated to orphanages.

Dug La, of Potts Camp, was apprehended with 82 quail. He is alleged to have had the birds in his possesajon aboard a train enroute to Memphis.

26 Fined For Failure To Have Licenses

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 26—Twenty six prosecutions for failure to have hunting licenses netted $260 in fines last week, according to Director Si Corley of the State Game and Fish Commission.

"If these 26 persons had secured hunting licenses as they should, they would have been required to pay only $33, while as a result of efforts to evade the law, it cost them $260," Director Corley said.

"This should be a lesson against attempting to get hy without complying with the law," he said. The county-wide licenses costs only $1.25 for the season, with the state wide privileges granted for $3.25."

As has been the case during the present hunting season, prosecutions for failure to secure licenses still lead the list. A total of 50 arrests were made, which represents a decline over the previous two-week period.

Other violations listed by Director Corley included: selling fish without license, 7; cheating and defrauding Game Commission, 1; gun not plugged, 11; having more quail than possession limit, 1; selling quail, 1; selling squirrels, 1; unlawful taking of fox, 1.

Candling Does Least Damage To Hatching Eggs After 15th Day

Poultrymen probably will get a better hatch if they wait until the fifteenth day or later to candle incubating eggs, says County Agent J. L. Cooley. Tests show that handling does more damage to hatching eggs between the fourth and fifteenth days of incubation than at any other time.

After the first fifteen days in the incubator, eggs with live embryons may be shaken violently, whirled rapidly, and jarred sharply and still hatch about as well as eggs carefully incubated, according to Marlow L. Olson and Theodore C. Byerly, poultry investigators in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. About 34 percent showed dead embryos after the eggs were shaken violently, jarred sharply, or otherwise roughly handled between the fourth and fifteenth days, compared with only 3 percent dead embryons in the eggs carefully incubated during the same period.

Incubating eggs damaged by rough treatment which was not severe enough to break the shells, usually showed broken yolk sacs, or ruptured vessels in the growing embryos. Sometimes tremulous air cells developed but if the embryos lived, the air cells again became fixed.

Tests were made partly to get scientific evidence relating to the popular belief that such disturbances as thunder, the rumbling of trains, dynamite explosions, and earthquakes are likely to prevent eggs from hatching. In the experiment, Olson and Byerly incubated certain eggs very carefully. Others were roughly handled at various intervals throughout the incubation period. Still other eggs were placed near blasting operations which produced a shock so severe as to break the shells of as many as one-third of the eggs. Of those eggs that escaped shell damage from the explosion, 67 percent hatched, compared with an 83-percent hatch for carefully incubated eggs.

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

(By F. J. Hurst)

With Mississippi farmers facing the necessity of shifting more land from cotton to other uses under provisions of the 1938 farm program, most farmers will give first consideration to production of plenty of food and feed for farm and home use and then turn their attention to other land uses. Good permanent pastures offer one of the most economical and profitable ways in which to utilize farm lands. Pasture produces the cheapest feed for livestock and at the same time prevents erosion of soil fertility.

Farmers who are interested in improving old pastures or in establishing new pastures will find invaluable information in Extension Bulletin No. 82, Pasture Production Manual. It covers such subjects as selection of soil, fencing, clearing, contouring, seeding and management. Seeding mixtures are recommended for each of the main soil types of the state.

"The Farm Sheep Enterprise for Mississippi" is the title of a new state extension bulletin that Mississippi farmers will read with great interest and benefit Paul F. Newell and C. J. Goodell, extension animal husbandmen of Mississippi State College, authors, have received letters of congratulation from livestock authorities throughout the United States. It is regarded as one of the most complete publications on sheep husbandry ever issued.

The bulletin declares that "a farming enterprise for which is claimed under reasonably efficient management a 100 percent return on investment, which fits admirably into farming plans, including any or all of the major crops of this section, and yet which does not expand appreciably over a period of years, presents a suitable field, it would seem, for examination, study, research, and possibly for more serious extension."

The publication contains 100 illustrations including pictures of the different types and breeds of sheep, management practices and farm equipment. Copies of this publication as well as of the pasture manual mentioned above can be obtained from county agents or the state extension service at State College.

Lespedeza should receive a lot of consideration by farmers, especially in the hill sections of Mississippi, in planning their farming programs. Lespedeza is one of the best summer legumes known. It is a great soil builder. It is one of the finest of hay crops. It does not require cultivation and is easily harvested. Farmers can earn payments under the agricultural conservation program for seeding it, for leaving it on the land, or for turning it under. For hay production, it should be planted on the more fertile bottom or second bottom soils and heavier uplands. Plant 25 pounds of seed per acre from the middle of February to early part of March.

Terraces, cover crops, rotation of crops and legumes improve soil fertility and conserve moisture for use of crop i ntime of drouth.

7th World Poultry Meet, Opportunity For State Progress

Leadership From 65 Counties To "Sell" Mississippi At Home as Well as Abroad

Anticipating a dual opportunity to advertise Mississippi and to provide Mississippians with an intimate conception of America's billion dollar poultry business as the foundation for a greater commercial industry, state agricultural effort is pointing towards active participation in the coming Poultry Congress and Exhibition.

It's first American production scheduled for Cleveland, Ohio July 28 through August 7, 1938, the World's Poultry Congress has previously been held in Holland, Spain Canada, England, Italy and Germany. It is truly international, 60 countries having been officially represented at one former exhibition, and 65 countries are anticipated at the Cleveland exhibition. Attendance is expected to be a half million or more. Delegates from these many countries discuss problems and policies of common interest, making use of four official languages and interpreters. Approximately 25 acres will be required to house exhibits of poultry and commodities entering into poultry production.

Mississippi's participation is under the direction of a state council, comprising representatives from the State Department of Agriculture, Extension Service, Experiment Stations, Advertising Commission, Industrial Commission, poultry breeders, hatcherymen, and others, with Governor Hugh White as ex-officio chairman. Such participation is to include an exhibit in the Hall of States and Nations, along with similar exhibits from more than 40 states and more than 20 foreign countries; the entertainment of approximately 1,000 foreign delegates on a nation-wide tour; and attendance by thousands of Mississippians, especially in sponsoring parties by train, automobile and bus.

"Poultry production is increasingly important in Mississippi agriculture," stated J. C. Holton, commisisoner of agriculture and chairman of the state council. "Practically all our 312,000 farms keep poultry mostly for home use, but increased commercial production is evidenced by increasing shipment of poultry and eggs; increasing numbers of flocks as well-bred as may be found anywhere, carlot shipments of turkeys, numerous hatcheries operating to capacity, and remarkable progress in disease control. Mississippi is capacitated to become a great poultry state. Our soil, climate and rain fall, mean maximum feed production, minimum costs of housing and maximum profits."

Winter Cover Crop To Be Turned Under

Mississippi farmers this spring will turn under the largest acreage of winter cover crops ever planted in the state.

Reorganizing the widely demonstrated value of growing winter legumes to control erosion, supply humus, and nitrogen and improve soil fertility, Mississippi farmers last fall planted 18,411,207 pounds of hairy vetch, Austrian winter peas, and burr clover, according to reports from county agents compiled by J. W. Willis, extension agronomist of Mississippi State College.

E. H. White, state director of extension, said this compared with 14,416,259 pounds planted in 1936, approximately 9 million pounds in 1935 and 5 million pounds in 1934.

Coahoma county led in the acreage planted, with Sunflower and Quitman each planting over one and one-half million pounds. Counties planting a large volume of seed included Coahoma 3,739,000 pounds; Sunflower 1,671,000; Quitman, 1,555,000; Leflore 935,000; Washington, 751,000; Tallahatchie, 610,000; Lee 608,00; Tunica 560,000; Monroe, 550,000; Bolivar, 514,310; Newton, 500,000; Simpson 387,000; Jones 374,000; Yazoo, 366,000; Humphreys, 360,000; Neshoba, 347,500; Jasper, 305,000; Madison, 302,000; Lincoln 201,760; Holes 200,000; Smith, 192,000; Leake, 191,000; Wayne, 190,500; Lawrence 186,000; Lowndes, 177,000; Covington, 160,000; Claiborne, 158,000; Pike 157,000; Tishomingo, 107,000.

Experiment station tests conducted in the Southern states over a period of 35 years showed that winter legumes turned under increased yields of cotton nearly 60 percent and yields of corn over 40 percent.

Farmers in Mississippi who have grown these nitrogen-gathering, humus-forming crops over a period of years have increased their yields of cotton from an average of less than one-third bale up to one bale of cotton per acre.

The biggest increase was in the acreage seeded to bur clover, a total of 5,604,311 pounds being seeded last fall.

Farmers will turn under these crops during the latter part of March and the early part of April.

The Agricultural Conservation program has been an important factor in increasing acreage seeded to winter cover crops as soil conservation payments have provided a substantial part of the cost of seeding and turning these crops.

County agents have encouraged farmers to grow cover crops, have helped them to secure good planting seed and have given them information on inoculation, planting and the best time and methods of turning the crop under.

The Poultry and Egg Outlook

(By Lottie Wood, H. D. Agent)

Egg prices during the first half of 1938 are expected to decline seasonally. The decline in prospect is not, however, anticipated to be as great as it was in 1937, as a result of the small number of laying birds in farm flocks. There are several important factors, however, that may offset the effect of the smaller number of laying birds in flocks on prices. These factors are: the probable large carry-over of storage eggs on January 1, 1938, a possibility of continuation of the high rate of egg production per laying bird and the expected consumer income. These offsetting factors are not considered to be as important as the possible reduction of egg production because of reduced numbers of laying birds per farm flock.

The outlook for egg prices, after the seasonal decline is over in May or June, is expected to be above those of 1937. Storage stocks throughout 1938 are likely to be lower than in 1937 because of smaller production of eggs and unwillingness of producers to store resulting from losses in the 1937 storage season.

The feed-egg ratio is expected to be distinctly more favorable in 1938 than in 1937. During most of 1937 about 50 percent more eggs than average (1925-34) were required to buy 100 pounds of feed. Increased feed supplies and lower prices relative to egg prices will result in improvement in the feed-egg ratio.

Chicken prices in the first half of 1938 are expected to be above those of 1937, but are not likely to exceed the 1925-34 average.

In the last half of 1938 the depressing effect on chicken prices of the prospective increase in spring hatchings may be partly offset by a possible increase in consumer income. Chicken prices are expected to be somewhat below those of the last half of 1937. There is, however, no basis now for anticipating a seasonal decline of chicken prices in this period very different from the 1925-34 average.

Broiler production in the winter of 1937 may be the largest of record. Storage holdings of broilers and other meats on December 1, 1937 were considerably below the same date of 1936 and below the 5-year (1932-36) average. Broiler storage was 62 percent below 1936 and 40 percent below the 5-year (1932-36) average. The price depressing effect of a large winter broiler production is likely to be offset to a great extent by these small supplies of broilers and other meats. Broiler prices are expected to remain high during the winter of 1938 relative to the same months of recent years. The same assurance with regard to heavy broiler production in the fall and winter of 1938-39 cannot be given in view of the expected increase in the 1938 hatch.

Potash Increases Yield Produces Heavier Seed

Heavier Bolls, Higher Lint Percentage, Better Grade, Longer Staple

Cotton fertilizer experiments conducted throughout the South show that sufficient amounts of potash in the fertilizer not only increases yield, but also produces heavier seed, heavier bolls, larger bolls, a higher line percentage, a better grade, a longer staple, a stronger fiber, and a lower percentage of thin-walled or weak fiber. These facts are ample substantiated by cotton experiments conducted by the Mississippi Experiment Station, in that complete fertilizers containing 8% potash are leading all other mixtures in yield and net profits according to E. H. Bailey, Field Agronomist, American Potash Institute, Inc.

Information sheet number 122 of the Mississippi Experiment Station shows that 4-8-8 led nine other mixtures in yield and net profit in a test conducted by the station at Scooba, in East Mississippi. The 4-8-8 produced a net profit of $13.78 over the no fertilizer treatment, compared with $7.75 from 6-8-4, and $6.09 from 8-8-4. A similar test is reported by the station from Summit, in South Mississippi, in which 4-8-12 led ten other mixtures in yield and profits. The 4-8-12 treatment, applied at the rate of 600 pounds per acre, gave a net profit of $28.59 per acre over no fertilizer treatment, compared with $26.56 from 4-8-8, $19.99 from 6-8-4, $18.49 from 8-8-4, and $18.18 from 4-8-4.

The Station also reports, in information sheet number 124, released in November, 1937, a test conducted in the hill section of Yazoo county, in which 6-8-8 applied at the rate of 500 pounds per acre, led nine other fertilizer mixtures in yield and profits. The 6-8-8 produced a net profit of $16.44 per acre over the no fertilizer treatment, compared with $7.08 from the same amount of 6-8-4.

In information sheet 136, released December, 1937, the Station shows that complete fertilizer mixtures containing 8% potash have led all others included in the yields and net profits in a 11-year average test, 1925-37. This test, in which fourteen fertilizer mixtures were compared, was conducted on bottom land at State College, Mississippi.

In a 11-year average test, 1925-37, reported from the Holly Springs Experiment Station in information sheet 133, 4-8-8 leads all other mixtures included in the test. This test was conducted on bottom land at the Holly Springs Station.

Judging from the above information cotton should be fertilized with from 400 to 600 pounds per acre of either 4-8-8 or 6-8-8 for most profitable results. The fertilizer should be applied before planting the cotton. In cases, however, where lower analysis fertilizers are used, and where cotton is inclined to wilt and rust, muriate of potash applied at the rate of 100 pounds per acre will be found profitable. The potash may be applied as a side-dresser in case it is not applied before planting.

GET YOUR COTTON OFF TO A GOOD START-

Use A COMPLETE FERTILIZER HIGH IN Potash

A HEALTHY start in life is half the battle. Plants, like animals, need plenty of food to get the vigorous start which will help them to ward off diseases and other harmful factors. Experiment stations have found that cotton particularly needs plenty of potash. Cotton fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain 8% potash to insure young plants receiving enough of this necessary plant food. Later in the growing season, more potash can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser, if required.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer about the right amount of potash in your fertilizer. Write us for further information and literature.

January Quota

ments were stopped and a number of aspiring "Leathernecks" were required to postpone their entrance into the service. All these young men have been entered on a waiting list and given the assurance that they would be called during the early part of February.

The Southern Division of the Marine Corps Recruiting Service, during the past year, was favored with a consistently larger enlistment quota than any other division of recruiting activity in the U. S. and it is the opinion of Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Davis, the officer in charge of division headquarters at New Orleans, that this policy will continue during the present year. There has never been an official explanation for this compliment paid to the soldierly qualities of southern young men, but Marine commanding officers have often discovered that the men in their organization, who came from Dixie, are the most dependable of their command and take to the rugged military life and discipline as true Marines.

For the month of February, the New Orleans office is expecting an increased quota, which will enable them to accept approximately 30 young men of sound physic, in addition to those now carried on the waiting list. Young men who have been thinking of entering the Marine Corps service are advised to ask for an application blank from their local Postmaster or write to Marine Corps Recruiting Headquarters, 535 St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La., for literature and information.
